We travel, some of us forever, to seek other places, other lives, other souls.”
—Anais Nin

Every time a book is opened or a play is watched, a journey is begun and we are off on a new adventure that will often open our mind or our heart—or both—to something new. Everything next season is new, as our home at the Alliance is renovated and we venture outside of our doors to perform in spaces all over our community:

In Alice Between, Alice is starting a new adventure and it is a completely wacky and illuminating Wonderland that only the particular characters and conditions of middle school can inspire. For a trip to an exotic land, travel to Porter Sanford III Performing Arts Center and crack open The Jungle Book to encounter Mowgli and learn how family is not always denoted by blood.

Older students can journey to England (or Oglethorpe University’s Conant Center) for Shakespeare in Love and witness the romantic adventures of a timeless master storyteller, or head to NYC (or the Marcus JCC of Atlanta) to catch a time honored tradition when the Pickle Man meets Izzy while Crossing Delancey.

Students can make new historical connections between time, place and human beings through the stunning poetry of Natasha Trethewey’s Native Guard, aptly playing at the Atlanta History Center, or remind themselves to “remember” by visiting Actor’s Express and experiencing Sheltered, the 2018 Alliance/Kendeda National Graduate Playwriting Competition winner about rescuing children from occupied Vienna.

Atlanta playwright and treasure Pearl Cleage is taking us on journeys that help us define what it means to be free in two one act plays: Hospice and Pointing at the Moon at the Southwest Arts Center.

Finally, Scrooge returns in A Christmas Carol, but within the walls of the Cobb Energy Centre, where we are hopeful he will once again find redemption.

Please travel with us as we seek new places in order to tell our stories, but also to encounter new lives and other souls!

Blessings,

Rosemary Newcott

Sally G. Tomlinson Artistic Director of Theatre for Youth and Families

HOW TO ORDER TICKETS

PHONE 404.733.4661
EMAIL AllianceSchoolDay@alliancetheatre.org

TICKET POLICIES

• All school groups must make advance reservations. Please call early to avoid disappointment.
• All patrons—regardless of age—must have a reservation. This also includes all teachers and chaperones.
• All tickets should be purchased through the school group, including chaperones. Single tickets and online sales are not available for school day performances.
• Home School groups are encouraged to attend student matinee performances at the same discounted rate.
• Due to limited seating availability, if your school wants to purchase seats that are equal or greater to ¾ of the theater capacity, we can possibly add an additional performance for your school. Please contact us for details.

PAYMENT POLICIES

• No immediate down payment is required.
• A non-refundable 25% deposit is required 30 days after reservation.
• Payment and final ticket counts must be provided 30 days prior to the performance date, payable by one credit card or check for the entire reservation.
• Paid reservations are final and there are no exchanges or refunds, but additional tickets may be added as long as seats are available.

LOCATION

Please consult the map for theater listings and addresses of all venues for the 2017/18 season.

SEATING

Seating is assigned on a first-come, first-served basis, and there is no partial group seating. Please plan to arrive at least 30 minutes before the performance. Please be aware that special needs school groups may receive priority seating.

LUNCH AND PICNIC OPPORTUNITIES

Limited spaces are available for indoor or outdoor picnic lunches. Reservations are required ahead of time.

ETIQUETTE

Our Theater Etiquette Letter, sent with the study guide, will help prepare your group. School groups that do not display proper etiquette may be asked to leave the theater.

DISCOUNTS AND SAVINGS

• Title I pricing available for The Jungle Book.
• Educators receive discounted Alliance Theatre Season Tickets. For details, call 404.733.4600.
• Educators receive free tickets to preview performances of each show. For details, call 404.733.5000.